

Assignment of Sole Proprietorship

Instructions

PURPOSE: To transfer the ownership of your sole proprietorship business from you as individuals to your Living Trust. A sole proprietorship is a business that is basically an extension of you. It files no separate tax return because all income and deductions are reported on your personal income tax returns. It is not a partnership or a corporation and has no separate legal identity other than a name under which you may be doing business.

NOTE: In the Assignment of Sole Proprietorship, ownership of all the assets of your business are transferred to your trust. Because your goal is to avoid guardianship and probate on these assets in the event of your disability or death, the execution of the Assignment should be sufficient. If you have a fictitious business name statement on file for your business, you should amend that filing to substitute the trust name as the owner of the enterprise.
